CONTINUOUS PLAY

Is Expected to Develop in England After the War.

London, Sept. 22.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The continuous play presented perhaps on a revolving stage, will develop after the war, in the opinion of Lady Wyndham, wife of Sir Charles Wyndham, the British actor and theatrical manager. Before her marriage to Sir Charles, Lady Wyndham was Miss Mary Moore, an actress and his partner in the management of several London theatres.

"The war," she declares, in an article in the Pall Mall Gazette, "will probably supply motives for various plays long after peace has been restored—not the war which is expressed in glimpses of battle, but the war as it shows itself in the hearts of men and women and influence their lives and their actions."

"My belief is that after the war an entirely new style of play will be evolved, and it will then be considered old fashioned to drop the curtain and have an entracte. The practically continuous play will be due, if it is, among other things, a tendency for people to go to revues and music hall, where the curtains do not drop.

"It is an indication of the restlessness of the age, and it was noticeable before the war. If these people are to be attracted to the theatre, they must have plays presented to them which do not contain a series of breaks. There may be rapid changes of scene and costume, or there may be the same setting throughout the performance.

"To have the same setting from beginning to end in a successful play would mean the need for greater art on the part of the players. As for the writer of plays of the kind which I foresee, he will find the work quite easy if he is a good craftsman.

One misfortune arising from a changed style of play will be the loss to the public of many fine examples of the playwright's art which have won fame in the past. It may be that theatre will have to be altered constructively. For instance, the stage of each theatre may have to be the revolving type, to enable the swift change of scene to be brought about as I suggest. Something of the art exists at the Coliseum.

"There is nothing more revolutionary in the continuous play of the future than there was in the past in the change from the five, six or seven act plays to the play of three acts—four at the outside—with which we have grown familiar. We must therefore, look forward to the results of an evolutionary process rather than to those coming from revolution.

WANTS TO NATURALIZE

600,000 ALIENS

Senator Calder Introduces Bill for Speedy Action on Citizenship.

Washington, Sept. 22.—More than 600,000 aliens who have signified their intention of becoming American citizens should be naturalized in three months under the terms of a bill introduced recently by Senator Calder of New York. Statistics compiled by the bureau of naturalization made public yesterday show that between July 1, 1915, and June 30, 1917, 626,616 aliens declared their intention of becoming citizens, but under the law a declarant cannot act upon his intention until the declaration is at least two years old.

Under the alien draft bill, now pending in Congress, these aliens would be liable for military service, thus relieving great numbers of Americans, particularly in cities having large foreign population. The bureau estimates that about 300,000 of the aliens are of military age. The bill also would naturalize foreigners who have enlisted in the military service of the United States.

TUNBRIDGE

Dr. John Durkee Had Lived in This Town Nearly All His Life.

Dr. John Durkee, a nearly life-long resident, died Monday forenoon at his home in North village, of general decline, at the advanced age of 83. He had been quite feeble for some months, yet able to take auto rides two or three weeks since. He was born in Tunbridge Jan. 2, 1834, son of Roswell and Nancy (Whitney) Durkee. He practiced medicine for many years, both before and after his army service in Co. D, 12th Vermont volunteers. He was a charter member of post No. 21, G. A. R., and a constant attendant until feeble health prevented. He served several years as superintendent of public schools very acceptably. He was a Universalist and the funeral was held from that church Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Mr. Harvey of Bethel. Sons of Veterans acted as pallbearers, and the impressive ritual of the Grand Army was repeated at the grave, in Durkee cemetery. Nearly all the few members of the local post and two others were present, including two brothers. He is also survived by a widow, who was Mary J. Belknap; a son, William, who resides in Kansas; a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Allen, at the old homestead, and seven grandchildren. The golden wedding anniversary was fittingly observed in 1905.

Hugh Lyman and Mrs. King have returned from their summer outing. T. W. Smith has recently sold about 30 thoroughbred sheep at very reasonable prices.

O. J. Howes of Barre was a recent visitor at the home of Ethel Tuller. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bates of Cavendish are visiting his brothers, Lester and Ernest.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard Farnham, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McIntosh, two sisters of Mr. Tucker, are spending a few days at Brook farm.

There is to be a "snipping party" under the auspices of the Red Cross, at Tucker's hall next Tuesday, Sept. 25. All interested are invited to be present and bring scissors and white cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Hood, who have been spending days sweet as honey and bright as the moon with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Granger, have returned to their home in Millville, Mass. Mr. Hood spent his childhood and youth in this town and is now employed in the Woonsocket Rubber works.
